Forty Hours Adoration

I'm really looking forward to joining you for three days of prayer and reflection in a few weeks. Keeping company with our Lord in the Blessed Sacrament, together we will explore some of the well-known parables and sayings from the gospels. What are we to make of the Parable of the Workers in the Vineyard, for example? How come all of the workers get paid a full day's wage but one group has only done an hour's work? Is that fair? And then there's the Parable of the Prodigal Son. Whose side are you on: the older son's or the younger son's? What about some of Jesus's hardest sayings? What did he mean when he said he had come to cause divisions and not peace? And what about the Holy Spirit: how can we tell whether an inspiration from the Spirit is genuine or not? Please be as generous as you can in giving time to the Lord: you can be confident that God will reward you abundantly in return. See you next month!
